Per guidance from the Department of Homeland Security, food and agricultural businesses, including animal food, are deemed essential and part of the critical infrastructure therefore exempt from any limitations to the maximum extent possible from the order to shelter in place.

BioZyme Incorporated, with headquarters in St. Joseph, MO, employs as an essential salesperson. He/She is driving to support feed and livestock food production which falls into the essential category of agriculture and food creation, transportation, distribution, and retail sales (for human or animal consumption) as determined by the government.
